"What's Wrong With This Picture," Interesting Title

By Katherine Elliott

From the time that Eve staged her little skit in the Garden to the present day, when her descendants are being bitten daily by the histrionic bug, some poor man has been asking, "What's Wrong With This Picture?"

Troy Lawson Perkins' satirical comedy of the movies presents this question in a most diverting and amusing manner. As usual, a woman begins the plot and a woman ends it; incidentally, it is the same woman. However, several others of the weaker sex are concerned in the development of the farce.

Betsy Rye, young, charming and alluring, is fascinated with Rollo Details, a puerile poet, whom we suspect of knitting in his leisure hours. Their golden dream of love is shattered by Betsy's irascible parent, who has as much sympathy for Details as the voters had for the bond issue. Then, too, Madame Braziloff—but that will come later.

Malcom Rye, Betsy's father, sends Betsy, Madame Braziloff and Mimi, the French maid, across the continent to Hollywood. Betsy, he thinks, may forget Details in the realization of her ambition to become a star of the silver screen. As luck would have it Details is under contract to furnish a scenario for the same company in which Betsy is cast. Then Fate slips another card from the bottom of the deck, and Eric Longbeak enters. He sees, he flounders, he falls; but Betsy does not realize it for a long time. She makes a vain attempt to act, fails, and becomes Eric Longbeak's lead for life. Mimi realizes her consuming ambition to

SU-KY OFFICIALS
NAMED FOR YEARWarren Elected President; Moore, Vice-President

Jack Warren was elected president of the Su-Ky Circle and E. B. Moore, vice-president, at the regular meeting of the organization held Tuesday afternoon. William Embry, who was vice-president of last year, has been acting president in the place of Tom Clure, the president, who graduated last June. Embry is not in school this semester, and is therefore not eligible to hold office. The Circle extended to Mr. Embry an invitation to attend all the meetings this semester and to take an active part in its work, as he anticipates returning to school in February.

Mr. Warren is a junior in the college of Arts and Sciences, and a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, and has always taken an active part in all campus activities and anything for the promotion of the interests of the university.

Mr. Moore is a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity, has been prominent in the activities of the department of Journalism, and has been very active in all university enterprises.

The Circle, returning to the original purpose of its organization, adopted a resolution confining its efforts to the promotion of athletics and to increase the school spirit. The attention of the Circle for the past two years has been divided among various other activities on the campus, but in the future will be devoted to the advancement of athletics.

Intercollegiate basketball for women was formally abolished at a meeting of the Woman's Athletic Association Thursday, November 13. Dorothy Kerth was appointed to serve as vice-president in place of Margaret Kinney, who did not return to the university this year.

President McVey, supported by Dean Sarah Blanding and Mrs. Stout, physical director for women, recommended that intercollegiate basketball be discontinued as a major sport for women. The matter was to have come before the University Senate for settlement at its next meeting.

A committee from the Woman's Athletic Association was selected to work for the continuance of girls' one intercollegiate sport. The investigation of the committee reversed the decision of the Association and pro-

LITERARY CLUB IS
FORMED BY GIRLSMembers to Petition Chi Delta
Phi Fraternity

A new literary organization for women students has arisen on the campus, known as "Las Narradorcitas," meaning, "The Little Story Tellers." The members are petitioning Chi Delta Phi, the sister organization of Sigma Upsilon, national honorary fraternity for men, a chapter of which is already established at the university.

The following students are members of Las Narradorcitas: Mary Elizabeth DePew, Louise Burks, Lydia Fremd, Katherine Elliott, Virginia Durbin, Frances Lee, and Edith Minneman. The sponsors of the organization are Mrs. F. L. McVey, and Miss Elizabeth Gay of the English department. Professor Grant C. Knight is the faculty advisor.

The objects of the new club are to foster literary ideals in the university of Kentucky, to discover new talent on the campus and to promote publication of worthwhile productions. Several members of Las Narradorcitas have been represented in leading publications of America.

The society will cooperate with Sigma Upsilon and with the English Club in the editing of a proposed literary magazine, the first issue of which will make its appearance in a short time.

Meeting of Presidents
Will Be Held on

In accordance with the dictates of the university senate, President McVey has appointed a committee to set up standards and recommendations for the men's and women's honorary and professional fraternities now on this campus. The senate believes that these groups have become too lax in demanding that their pledges come up to the standards required of each group, and that something must be done to correct this situation. The committee appointed consists of Dean C. R. Melcher, chairman; Dean Sarah G. Blanding; Charles T. Hughes, president of the Men's Student Council, and Professors E. F. Farquhar and J. C. Jones.

This body has called a meeting of the presidents of each of the 18 fraternities known as honorary or professional, to be held Monday, November 24, at 3:45 o'clock, in the Admin-

FAVORABLE REPORT
IN Y. M.-Y. W. DRIVEFirst Joint Finance Drive Has Successful Result

The latest reports of the annual joint finance drive of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. which was held on the campus last week, indicate that both organizations will reach the goals set at the beginning of the drive. All reports have not as yet come in, but the Y. M. has received approximately $800 in pledges toward its goal of $1,200, while the Y. W. has received pledges amounting to approximately $650 of its goal of $700. In addition, the women on the faculty and in the offices of the university have pledged a little more than $100 to the Y. W.

The Y. M. C. A. will solicit the men of the faculty in the near future in an effort to raise $600. The two organizations urge the cooperation of every student and member of the university staff in raising these portions of their budgets. Without the necessary funds, the two organizations cannot carry out their full programs.

This is the first time the two organizations have held a joint drive and the results have been most gratifying. Miss Frances Lee, treasurer of the Y. W. and Frank Melton, treasurer of the Y. M., were chairmen of the drive.

Passes

The University of Kentucky Kittens will play the Tennessee Rats on Stoll Stadium field tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in a game which promises to be one of the stiffest freshman games ever played on the local gridiron. Last Saturday the Volunteer junior team nosed out the Centre frosh by the score of 20 to 19 in a fast game played in Knoxville. The Rats displayed the most dazzling array of overhead plays seen in Knoxville for several seasons, which means that the Kittens will have to combat a forward passing attack. Tennessee completed 12 out of 22 passes against Centre, and piled up 14 first downs—while Centre managed to get seven.

The only department of play in which the Lieutenants eclipsed the Rats was in knocking out men. Centre succeeded in putting three big Rats to sleep, while Tennessee failed to inflict a knockout on the blood-thirsty Lieutenants.

The Kittens have been perfecting their defense against forward passes during the past week, and also their running attack. From all indications they are going to give the Rats some of their own biscuits tomorrow, as the Kittens have two men in the backfield who can whip passes to all corners of the lots, and ends who are excellent receivers.

Van Arsdale has recovered from injuries he received in the Vanderbilt game, and will be putting forth his best efforts tomorrow to subdue the Rats. Moloney, who collected two broken ribs last Saturday, will not be at his berth at center, but he will get into football togs soon. The team, outside of these two injured,

SPIRIT OF KENTUCKY ALUMNI

On this page appears an article about the Alumni Stadium on Stoll Field. This accomplishment marks the awakening of the alumni spirit of the University of Kentucky; a spirit which if increased as it should be will mean more to the institution within the next five years than anything else has meant during its whole history.

While there has been an organized effort among the alumni of many of our leading universities and colleges for several years in an attempt to aid these institutions, there has only been a joint organization of these groups for the past eleven years. The last convention of Secretaries of Alumni Associations was held at the University of Virginia April 10-12, 1924.

This convention was well attended and as a result of its deliberations many fine suggestions were given which if followed will lead to great achievements. What has been done by the alumni of the University of Kentucky should prompt them to present a united front in a battle for the Greatest University in the South.

PITTSBURGH CLUB TO MEET

The following letter has been sent to the members of the Pittsburgh Club:

"You remember the good time we had at our last dinner party, on the occasion of the Senior Class Inspection Trip to Pittsburgh.

"We are going to have another, and we propose to make it just as profitable and entertaining as the last. The time will be Saturday, November 22, at 7:00 p. m., and the place will be announced later.

"The meeting will consist of limited prepared talks by our own members on subjects that will interest you. The entire program is not complete, however, and we are expecting suggestions from you.

"We want three major addresses on timely subjects by members who are best qualified as to information and delivery. We have in mind at present the following:

1. General Information at Kentucky State.
2. Athletics at Kentucky State.
3. Local and Inter-Collegiate News.

"These are merely suggestions, and we are also asking that you personally give us further ideas as to what would be valuable and interesting to bring up at this meeting, and who in your opinion is best qualified to speak.

"An addressed and stamped envelope is enclosed for this purpose, and to let us know that you will be on hand. Tell us also of any newcomer or Kentucky visitor among us.

Kentucky State Alumni,
 G. Taylor Swartz, President,
 W. W. Stevenson, Secretary."

STROLLERS TO GIVE TEA DANCE NOV. 22

All Members And Eligibles to be Invited

The Strollers of the university, will entertain for the new Stroller eligibles, Saturday November 22 at Patterson Hall from 4 to 6 o'clock, instead of Thursday, as was previously announced. At this time the new eligibles will be pledged, and after the pledging exercises dancing will be enjoyed. The Blue and White orchestra will furnish the music, and the invitations include all Strollers, and both old and new eligibles.

The committee has been at work for the past few weeks trying to select a suitable play for the spring production, and it is thought that the announcement of their decision will be made in the next issue of the Kernel.

Cost per seat	$9.28

The six sections of the stadium which were dedicated November 1, 1924, just preceding the Kentucky-Centre game is the gift of alumni and friends of the University of Kentucky. This structure which has been erected at an outlay of more than $120,000 stands out in all of its splendor as a monument to the spirit of not only the contributors but to the engineering committee, executive committee of the alumni association, the Board of Trustees of the university, the athletic council and the contractors.

Too much praise cannot be given the campaign executive committee and the executive committee of the alumni association for the unselfish work they did in making it possible that this construction could be done. These committees worked almost daily for more than six months prosecuting the Greater Kentucky Drive which secured pledges amounting to about $215,000.

STADIUM BUILDING COMMITTEE

The stadium building committee is composed of J. I. Lyle, chairman, of New York City; Prof. D. V. Terrill, secretary, Lexington, Ky.; Frank Daugherty, Philadelphia; A. V. Lester, Dayton, Ohio; J. White Guyn, City Engineer of Lexington, Ky.

This committee labored faithfully, sparing no time and thought in working out every possible detail of this massive structure. A local contractor who has seen several of the large stadiums in the north and east, including the Ohio State Stadium, and the Illinois Stadium, says, "The stadium on Stoll Field is the most perfectly designed and best constructed of any that I have seen," and "The designers never overlooked any details regardless of how small they may have been, for one can sit in any section and have a perfect field of vision. The playing field has been graded in such a manner as to permit perfect view from any seat in the stadium and the concrete work is the best that I have ever seen."

Prof. D. V. Terrill, alumnus and faculty member of the College of Engineering of the University designed the stadium and handled the construction as resident engineer in full charge. He was assisted in designing by H. L. Strause graduate student, and H. R. (Dutch) Creal, senior engineering student of the Civil Engineering Department. The Class of 1924, senior civil engineers, assisted in drafting and surveying the project. Assisting in construction supervision were C. S. Crouse, Professor of Metallurgical Engineering, and C. J. Tate, student of the 1924 class.

L. K. Frankel and J. J. Curtis, Lexington architects, both members of the firm and alumni of the University of Kentucky, acted as consulting architects and rendered very valuable assistance. The Osborne Engineering Company of Cleveland, Ohio, were employed as consulting engineers.

Louis des Cognets and Company, Lexington, Ky., were the general contractors. In active charge of this work were E. R. Ackerman, general manager and secretary; Douglas Thompson, superintendent, and Maury Crutcher, former Wildcat football star, assistant superintendent.

Among the sub-contractors were J. J. Fitzgerald, plumbing; J. T. Jackson Lumber Co., form work; Allen Electric Co., wiring, and Combs Lumber Co., seats, all of Lexington, Ky.

CONTRACTS LET MAY 1, 1924

Many almost unsurmountable obstacles arose which made it seem impossible at times to have the six sections completed by November 1st, at which time the most interesting game of the season was played. They were all overcome and the task sufficiently finished that 10,400 enthusiastic rooters for the Blue and White and Gold and White found comfortable seats from which they witnessed their annual battle.

Work began May 10 and Section O was completed August 1, sections N and M September 1, Sections D and C October 1, Section B October 18. Officials of the Alumni Association, Stadium Building Committee and Athletic Council were well pleased with the manner in which the work was done and have so expressed themselves to the contractors and workmen.

The ramp under Section B has been completed since November 1 and rooms for conveniences of visiting teams have been placed under this section. At present little remains to be done except removing the rubbish left after doing this work.

Under the sections on the south side are rooms for the convenience of the general public and team rooms equipped with lockers and showers.

SIXTH SECTION

It was at first thought that only five sections could be built, but the contractors made fine progress and offered a very attractive proposition for the construction of the sixth section which was accepted. Their offer was to erect section P for $16,500.00, and to contribute $1,000 of that amount. It would have cost much more to have had this done, once the contractors were away from Stoll Field.

It seemed for some time that the opportunity to build this section would be lost because funds were not available and it appeared too difficult to secure them. This obstacle was overcome by the Athletic Council, which borrowed $15,500.00 from a local bank. Some of the members of the council and alumni secured 31 men who gave their personal notes for $500.00 each to be used as collateral with the bank making the loan. The notes run for three playing seasons and are to be paid off from receipts from games to be played in the stadium.

The playing field was graded, tiled and refilled. The Athletic Council made a further contribution by paying for sodding the field, buying a springing system needed to give the grass a good start and paying for the fence which surrounds the grounds. These items required an expenditure of $3,500.

The members of the Athletic Council are Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, chairman; Enoch Grehan; E. A. Bureau; H. E. Curtis; Louis Hillenmeyer; E. B. Webb; Louis Lee Haggan; Mayor Hogan Yancey and S. A. Boles, athletic director of the University. President Frank L. McVey is ex-officio a member of this body and always shows a very active interest in its work.

WILL FORM HORSESHOE

When finally completed the stadium will take the form of a horseshoe with a seating capacity of 25,000, every one of which will give a good view of the playing field as do those that are now in existence. Sections P and A will be added to the west end of the south and north sides which are already completed and Sections L and E will be constructed to the east, giving five sections on each side. With these the seating capacity would be about 17,000. It will take six additional sections to close the arc and give the maximum seating capacity.

One scene is of the covered bridge at Camp Nelson, one a shack on the Harrodsburg pike and one an old cottage near Shakertown.

Kappa Sigma Dance

The active members of Kappa Sigma fraternity of the University entertained with a delightful barn dance at their chapter house on East Maxwell street, Saturday evening in honor of their pledges. The Kentuckians furnished the music. The house was uniquely arranged as a barn, with bales of hay, shocks of fodder and farming implements about the room. Lamps were placed in the corners, which added to the atmosphere of a rustic scene.

Miss Carrell Rankin of Frankfort, and Fred Lawson, of Hillsboro, Ohio, were married Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Mark Collis in the parsonage of the Broadway Christian Church. Mr. and Mrs. Lawson will make their home in Lexington until June when Mr. Lawson, who is now a student at the university, will be graduated.

Y. W. C. A.

The Artistic Rooms Contest conducted by the Y. W. C. A. closed Monday night when the judges made an inspection of the rooms in the girls' dormitories. Two pounds of candy were awarded to each winner in the respective halls, and a prize of a Kentucky pillow was given to the best of the three winning rooms. The rooms of the following people were given prizes: Ruth and Ruby Lovell in Patterson Hall; Lorena Weber, Mary Louise Taylor, and Evelyn Rogers in Boyd Hall; Mary Agnes Gordon, Anita Gardner, and Lillian White in Smith Hall. The Smith Hall girls also won the pillow. Not only was personal interest manifested in the project, but it can be stated that for once every room in the dormitory was immaculate. This contest is the first of its kind to be carried on by the Y. W. C. A., but the Association intends to make it an annual affair.

The Y. W. C. A. will follow its annual custom in giving a number of Thanksgiving baskets to the Associated Charities. All persons on the campus who care to donate money or articles of food are asked to call Louise Burks, 142L.

A girl dance will be given on Thanksgiving night by the Y. W. C. A. admission of 25c will be charged in order to pay for the music. A costume is suggested, but will not be requisite for admission. Every girl, whether she is a member of the Y. W. C. A. or whether she lives in a dormitory is invited and urged to come.

A special Thanksgiving program will be presented at 6:30 p. m. Sunday night, November 23. All girls are invited to come.

A box will be placed on the bulletin board of the Y. W. C. A. Room in White hall for the purpose of collecting money for magazines for the reading table. Drop in a nickel or a dime as you pass by so that your favorite magazine may be placed on the table. Boost the Y. W. C. A.!

The confidence which freshmen place in the ability of upper classmen to properly inform them was well illustrated a few days ago when one of our yearling co-eds asked a senior "Please, will you tell me what kind of weather we will have during the second week in December?"

THE OBJECTIVES OF EDUCATION

Throughout the length and breadth of this land at the present time many men and women who are devoting themselves to the problems of preparing young people for lives of happiness and usefulness are expressing views relative to the objectives of education.

A newspaper proofreader a few days ago slipped into the story of an address on this subject the expression "the objections of education". There are indeed many objections to educational processes, especially to those that unfortunately send young men and women from our universities with a "smart" attitude toward life's responsibilities.

Some of us have been evolving for a number of years a philosophy relative to the training of engineers and what applies to a man equipped best for engineering applies to every field of human endeavor.

We have a rather firm conviction that the real objective of education should be to send a graduate away from the university in an humble attitude toward the responsibilities of life's work.

Technical graduates must be made to realize on commencement day that they are in no sense engineers, but that they may some day become worthy of the title of engineer if they will enter vigorously into the problems of some organization and devote themselves for ten or fifteen years to learning somebody's business. To succeed in an industrial organization, college men must know how to obey orders.

Human engineering, a term that has appeared only recently, implies an effort to unite human qualities and characteristics with excellent engineering practices. Preparation for careers of dependability and unselfishness in out industries requires two training schools—first, the college; second, the industry.

The engineer, to attain the position of leadership to which his professional service entitles him, must be an English scholar as well as a scientist and technician. No one in all life's relationships has more vital and fascinating observations to relate than the engineer. It is just as essential for the engineer to be able to express clearly and elegantly his deliberations through written and spoken language as it is for him to be able to convey his technical ideas through the language of mechanical drawing. The banker, the economist, the business executive, the railroad president, and the layman must be addressed in the mother tongue.

The objective of the university should be, besides giving an intellectual basis, to establish the proper attitude toward that which is to follow in the game of life. The proper attitude, in our judgment, should be an humble attitude. Youth, just passing through his preliminary education as given by the university, has no right to be in any other attitude for he has not lived years enough to know much and he is just beginning to do what Sir William Hamilton so well observed when he said, "Every man must educate himself."

A young college man with the proper respect for superiors, the ability to work patiently under direction, an unselfish and cooperative manner toward the human elements either above or below him in official status, is an eternal joy in any organization. A college man with this attitude is sure to become one of the important factors in any institution with which he becomes identified for a number of years.

Too much attention at the present time is paid to the mere matter of accumulating knowledge rather than learning how to make use of knowledge. A college man with the proper attitude will find no particular difficulty in coping with the problems and responsibilities of an ever widening and varying world of industry. The humble attitude creates for a youth just out of school a chance for success and makes friends by myriads.

"Humble yourselves, therefore, under the mighty hand of God that he may exalt you in due time." 2 Peter, c. 5, v. 6.

LOOKING FORWARD

The abolishment of intercollegiate basketball competition for women and the endorsement of a strictly intramural program by the Woman's Athletic Association of the University of Kentucky was done not through coercion but conviction. After a thorough investigation of scientific fact, reliable opinion, and national trend, they have taken a broader view of the purpose and benefit of athletics for the individual, the group, and the University.

They are looking forward! The stars of intercollegiate basketball teams will be leaders in intramural activities. They will reap greater rewards mentally, physically, and nominally. The individual will have opportunity to compete in diversified organized sports, and to study each one scientifically.

The group will have the chance for competitive participation long denied them. Every girl in the University will have opportunity to try out for some team. A larger selection than ever before will engage in athletic activities.

The standards of its groups make the standards of the University—W.A.A. by its course of action has raised Kentucky a notch in its standing among universities. W.A.A. has not merely conformed to the lead of larger universities, but has imbibed the ideal for collegiate sports—the possession of which will make it a leader in intramural development.

LOOKING BACKWARD

It is usually considered best form to look forward instead of backward but it is permissible to give a brief review of the past events when such events throw a rosy light over the entire screen.

After such a successful season last year the girls' basketball team should not be neglected in view of the plans for girls' athletics this year but before we go on, let us glance backward and see how much they really did accomplish.

Did you know that the Girl's Basketball Team of the University of Kentucky were champions of Kentucky and, what is more, All-Southern Champions last year? And did you know that two members were picked for the mythical All-Kentucky team and three received honorable mention? Sport writers praised the team as being one of the best girls' teams that have ever appeared on a Lexington floor. Out of nine match games, the Kittenettes won nine and with a safe margin at the end of each game. The teams which bowed in defeat before this powerful feminine quintette were Georgetown College, twice, University of Louisville, twice, Kentucky Wesleyan, twice, Peabody College Chattanooga and Kentucky Western Normal.

The University was not interested in girls' inter-collegiate basketball at the beginning of the season but before the games had all been played, the first floor and balcony were full of fervent fans rooting for their team. Excitement ran high for the games were hotly contested.

Eight girls received sweaters for their work and of these only two were graduated. The others returned to the University this fall.

This year the manager of the team has received several letters from teams in Kentucky asking to be put on Kentucky's schedule but the girls have decided to devote their time to intramural athletics and, with the support of the students of the University, will make this season a more interesting and successful one than ever before.

JUST A WORD

"We ain't got no news editor!" That illustrious personage tendered his resignation after the duties of junior editor of the Kentuckian began to weigh so heavily on his shoulders, (not his mind). In the place of a news editor we have a news editor, Miss Frances Kane, who will fulfill her duties as conscientiously as did her predecessor, we are certain, we hope.

Had we had a visitor and had taken him to the pep-meeting last Friday night we would have blushed with shame. When time came to start the meeting, no more than 100 students were present. They continued to drift in until there were about 200 present before the meeting closed.

That, in the eyes of the writer, is the most lamentable state of affairs that could exist among the members of the student body. If one comes to this university to be a member of it and to take part in its activities and enjoy the privileges and advantages it offers, he should have at least enough "pep" and school spirit to come to these meetings. If one did not come for the above-mentioned reasons, then he would be far better off back on the farm from whence he came. We hope the fact that we have lost two games in succession did not cause anyone to stay away. If that is the kind of student you are, you are not worthy of the name "student of the University of Kentucky."

If this student body does not wake up and show more spirit, especially the freshmen, we recommend some strenuous measures to compel them to support their teams and their university, a subject which should need no comment. It is disagreeable to have to use that word "compel"; you should be willing and anxious to lend your presence if not your vocal powers.

No one who saw the V. M. I. game can say that it lacked thrills. The forward passes which carried the 'cats from the 50 to their opponents' 15-yard line, the ball going to the opponents and Kentucky recovering it for a five-yard gain on V. M. I.'s attempted punt; a 'cat pass intercepted and the cadet being downed by a slender shirt-tail hold after passing all the other Kentucky players—all these things happening in the last three minutes of play caused last Saturday's game to be one of the most thrilling ever played on Stoll field.

We are happy to note that the controversy between the girls' athletic association and the university senate, who abolished girls' intercollegiate basketball, has been so happily terminated. We congratulate the girls on the sensible view they have taken of the matter.

The "Pay-As-You-Go" folk are asking for subscriptions to pay a deficit of $5,700 incurred by that organization during its recent campaign. Just another illustration of the impracticability of paying as you go.

The question most commonly asked on the campus is, "Who disabled the 'chicken-walk' light?"

The youngest student contest grows interesting. In our earlier issues we stated that probably one of the youngest students to ever attend the university was Joy Pride, who registered here this fall as a freshman at the age of 15. We are in receipt of a letter from Captain D. P. Branson, Camp Gaillard, Canal Zone, who states that Alice Lyle Crawley, was 18 years old on April 13, 1907, and was graduated the following June. L. S. Boggess, '07, was graduated when just a few months older than Miss Crawley. If there are any alumni who know of other young graduates, we would appreciate a word from them.

One of our fair young co-eds attended the races a few afternoons ago and lost her form (racing?).

PIPE BENDS GET AROUND MANY DANGER POINTS

Good pipe-line engineering employs pipe bends in many places in preference to elbow fittings and expansion joints.

In steam lines which feed reciprocating engines, for instance, the pulsating flow of steam makes the use of pipe bends at right angle turns almost imperative to avoid hammering. In straight runs of piping subject to temperature variations, pipe expansion bends are the most satisfactory means of taking up expansion and contraction.

Pipe bends of any form reduce the strains which are usually the cause of leaks at joints. They must be properly designed, however, and made to fit into place without forcing. Otherwise dangerous strains may be set up in them, completely offsetting the advantages derived through their use.

Investigations carried on by Crane Co. have uncovered much information of value about pipe bends. The results are summed up in complete data tables that form an interesting chapter of Crane catalog No. 51. If this book is not in your files, we will be glad to mail you a copy on request.

Centers and Quarterbacks

A GOOD basketball center or football quarterback knows more than the resources of his team. He knows what resources to call upon at decisive moments. To him, the condition of his opponents, their weight and style of play, the time left to go—all dictate a strategy, which he follows.

There is in industry a group of engineers whose position resembles that of field general. They keep their eyes continuously upon all fields of human activity. They observe how each is affected by changing economic situations. They calculate what demands the future will make upon each. Then they bring to its aid new discoveries and beneficial methods.

In 1886, George Westinghouse saw that industrial growth could not be furthered by direct current alone. The "game" required a new style of play. So when the rudiments of a transformer came along—opening the way for alternating current, Westinghouse adopted both, perfected them, and paved the way for the electrical era of the present time.

In an organization like Westinghouse, these "quarterbacks of industry" are called "application engineers". They are mechanical and electrical engineers who apply the forces of electricity to every variety of human need.

Westinghouse application engineers first applied motors to the steel industry, the textile industry, the automobile industry. They introduced electricity to railroads and ships. They developed it for heating purposes.

Application engineers are needed in industry—they fill an important and expanding place. Westinghouse service to industry starts with their efforts.

ACHIEVEMENT & OPPORTUNITY

VANDY FALLS IN KITTENS' MARCH

Ellis Carries Ball Over Line for Two Scores

Two touchdowns made by Ellis, shifty halfback on the Kittens' football team, enabled them to defeat the Vanderbilt yearlings at Nashville last Saturday afternoon 13 to 0.

The Kentucky team relied on passes and end runs for most of its gains, with the well-balanced visiting back-field alternating with line plunges. Shortly after the opening of the second quarter the Kittens advanced the ball well into Vanderbilt territory, a 25-yard pass and two line plays carried it to within striking distance of the goal and Ellis skirted his own left end for the marker. Ropke failed to kick goal.

Neither team scored in the third quarter and it was toward the close of the final period when the Lexington team scored again. Phipps passed to Ellis for 10 yards; Kirkendall, diminutive sub-halfback, gleaned 15 yards around right end; Jenkins, Kentucky quarterback, hit the line for a short gain and Ellis again went wide around Vandy's right wing for the second touchdown.

The Green and White men won the game by reason of a well-coached team, using a fast, open field style of attack which kept the Ensigns guessing throughout the tilt. The Vanderbilt yearlings were handicapped by the absence of Andy Reese, flashy Mississippi high school boy, who is the mainstay of the team and now is ill in a Nashville hospital.

Moloney, Kitten center, was injured in the second quarter when he was caught on the scrimmage line and suffered two broken ribs. Pence took his place.

Lusky and Bostick, linemen, at times piled the Kentucky offense, while Owen, halfback, was the center of the Ensign offense.

The following is the lineup and summary:

Vandy Frish	Kentucky Frish
Davis	l. e. Martin
Lusky	l. t. Hickerson
Bostick	l. g. James

WHITE, V. M. I. STAR

'Cats' Try For Victory In Last Quarter is Futile

Taking advantage of the breaks, and aided by a Kentucky penalty, the Virginia Military Institute eleven defeated the Wildcats at Stoll Stadium field last Saturday 10 to 3, in a game replete with thrills and in which the playing of White, mighty V. M. I. fullback, predominated.

White, the human battering ram, and the most versatile football man seen on the local gridiron this year, placed a beautiful 42-yard placement kick between the bars in the second quarter and followed this by scoring a touchdown in the last quarter, the score which spelled disaster to the Blue and White.

At the beginning of the last period Kirwan made a first down for Kentucky. Hughes, on a criss-cross, made five yards around right end but on the next play Gregg lost two. A Kentucky pass was intercepted by Hope, of V. M. I., on Kentucky's 37-yard line.

Caldwell proceeded to make four yards and White, on the next play, aided by perfect interference, took the ball 24 yards down the field to Kentucky's 9-yard line. Caldwell failed to gain and White lost two yards on the next play. Kentucky got a five-yard penalty and Willis gained one yard. White then carried the ball to Kentucky's 3-yard line. Caldwell hit the line for 2 and White took the oval over center on the next play for the touchdown. He also kicked goal.

Outside of the score, the teams were evenly matched and fought on par most of the time. The Cadets, however, were the "eleven opportunists" that came from Virginia and they took advantage of five downs in the first quarter to make ten yards, snagged Kentucky passes and smothered Blue and White backs on poorly executed plays. The first downs favored the Wildcats, 9 to 8 but the Cadets had the superiority in yards gained from scrimmage.

It was the case of a fullback backed by a unified line against a fullback backed by a leaky forward wall and the former triumphed. White proved to be the effulgent star of the game. It was his great work which enabled his team to overcome their opponents. The Cadet line proved a terror on defense and offense as well and the great Whit, six feet three inches of football material, was able to gain almost at will. It seemed to the spectators that he maneuvered with the oval at will and this extra time added greatly to his punting during the afternoon.

Captain Sanders displayed the same hard fighting that has characterized his playing all season. He went down on opponent punts and sent the V. M. I. backs to the ground time after time for no gain. The Kentucky line, at the start of the game, displayed defensive ability but substitutions broke the rank and the Cadets slipped through to grab Wildcat backs before they started on end runs or had a chance to start passes sailing down the field.

Gardner Bayless started the game at quarterback and looked especially

WILDCATS TO BE CENTRE'S GUESTS

Colonels Invite Murphy and 'Cats to Georgia Game

The University of Kentucky Wildcats, coaches Fred J. Murphy, C. O. Applegran and Ray Eklund and S. A. "Daddy" Boles will be the guests of the Centre College Colonels on the Saturday following Thanksgiving, when the Prayin' Colonels meet the Georgia eleven in a game which will determine the winner of the Southern Championship in football for 1924. Captain Curtis Sanders has been invited to sit on the Centre bench, which indicates the esteem the Colonels have for the greatest Wildcat fullback and captain of all time.

The Centre College athletic officials sent invitations yesterday to all members of the Wildcat team and to the coaches, and Daddy Boles has intimated that the invitations will be accepted. The Blue and White team will arrive in Lexington the next Friday after the game with the Tennessee Volunteers on the preceding day and will board the train for Danville early Saturday morning.

Centre College, in extending invitations to the 'cats, has displayed again that spirit of fair sportsmanship and that spirit of clean athletics, holding no malice against anyone and taking no more than its share of glory for a victory—qualities that have characterized her athletic dealings with the University of Kentucky since athletic relations were assumed, and which have won for her this year the title of "Champions of the South."

good for the first few minutes of the game but was removed from the lineup because of the mistake of another man. He snagged a pass which went for 15 yards and the 'cats made two first downs during the few minutes he was in the game.

"Turkey" Hughes broke loose for a 60-yard run when he received the kickoff at the start of the game and Kentucky fans received a short-lived thrill, for improper blocking caused the safety man to snag Hughes. Hughes got off some of the best punts he has made this year and threw passes with elusiveness and accuracy.

AS SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By FRANK K. HOOVER

Daddy Boles can now stretch the tarpaulin over Stoll Stadium field for the remainder of the year 1924, as far as the Wildcats are concerned. They fought gamely and won three and lost three in the newest and finest football stadium in the south, but the home season was not as successful as we hoped it would be. The freshmen still have a game or two left to be played in the stadium, and it is hoped that they will shake off the shackles of disheartening defeat.

White was the V. M. I. luminary Saturday. He did everything a man is supposed to do in football and a little more. He had no mercy at any time and his sneaks around the ends and through the line were remarkable. He carried every kind of a threat and these attributes cause us to place him at the head of the list of opponent fullbacks we have seen this year.

Captain Sanders played his last game of football on the home lot. He fought gamely tackled cleanly and hard and carried the ball when a few yards for first down were needed but—the spoils of victory were not to be his.

W. A. Rice also played his last game for Kentucky on the home field. He will pass on into other fields after the Turkey Day battle with Tennessee, but his name will live as one of the great "neglected"—a member of the forward wall.

Turner Gregg, in playing his final game on Kentucky sod, displayed generalship which far exceeded any shown by him in his four years on a Kentucky team. It is a hard matter for a quarterback to please every football fan in the stands. It takes a fighter to stand up under the wrath of fans and "Slat" is all the greater in the eyes of those who look from the press stands.

Kentucky opened up with an attack near the end of the last quarter which nearly resulted in a touchdown, but a bad pass caused the downfall of the Felines. Kirwan passed to Tracy for 25 yards, Hughes sent a pass to Tracy for 20 yards and Tracy yessed to Gregg for 6 yards near the end of the game, but Sanders lacked the necessary force to carry the ball 5 yards for a marker. A Kentucky pass was intercepted and the Cadets were on an upward trend as the game ended.

A rejuvenated V. M. I. team was largely responsible for the Wildcat defeat. Ferguson was sent in to take the place of Hammonds at center, Willis took Foster's place in the back-

The game with the Tennessee Rats on Stoll field tomorrow should decide the first year championship of the south. The Rats have won four straight games over the best the south has to offer, including Centre, and Eklund's charges are making due preparation for a royal welcome for the Tennesseans.

Turkey Hughes' great run of 60 yards on the first kickoff brought a great thrill to Kentucky fans—but the thrill was like a June frost. Anyway, you'll have to give "Turk" credit for making the run.

Dope is a funny thing. Kentucky was defeated by Centre 7 to 0 and by Alabama 52 to 7, and Centre beat Alabama 17 to 0. Therefore, we have it on Alabama by ten points. Wonder if Alabama wouldn't play the game over with us after Thanksgiving.

The yells were tame last Saturday, as well as the crowd. It was a slim gathering for a "sendoff and farewell" occasion, but maybe the weather had something to do with the attendance.

Before the next Kernel will have been issued, Kentucky will have already played her annual Thanksgiving game. We hope you will wind up the season in the right manner, Wildcats. Our hearts are with you, if others turn you down. Most of your defeats have been victories in our eyes and considering that a new system was being inaugurated and new men were being broken in, you had a successful season. Your one great piece of work was holding Centre as you did. The game did not result in victory but it is no easy thing to hold a team that beat Alabama 17 to 0 and a team which lays claim to the Southern championship.

field and Fain was sent in early in the game to relieve Barkley at right end. Willis and Fain are ten-second men on the Virginia track team and besides being speedy, they added weight to the Cadet attack.

The game marked the passing of four battle scarred veterans from the Kentucky lineup. These men, Captain Curtis Sanders, Charles T. "Turkey" Hughes, W. A. Rice, Turner Gregg, will not be seen in combat by Wildcat fans any more, but in their passing they have inscribed on the Blue and White Hall of Fame their names, because of their never-dying and courageous spirit of defending their Alma Mater from foreign foes.

CAT HARRIERS GO TO Y. M. H. A. MEET

Coach Applegran Takes 7 Men for Louisville Run

The Wildcat cross-country team will leave Wednesday night for Louisville where they will run on Thanksgiving day in the eighth annual cross-country race under the auspices of the Young Men's Hebrew Association. The race will start at 11 a. m., and will be run over the Cherokee Park course. This course has all the obstacles that make a cross-country run interesting, rough and smooth ground, dense underbrush, hills and dales, and other natural phenomena. It is also advantageous as far as the spectators are concerned, as they are given three close-up views, at the start, the middle of the run and the finish.

The Y. M. H. A. event has been recognized as the leading cross-country event in this section by officials of the Indiana-Kentucky district of the A. A. U. It has always attracted the foremost teams in the state, and this year will be no exception. The University of Kentucky, the University of Louisville, Y. M. H. A. and the Y. M. C. A. will enter teams in this meet. Neither of the latter is considered to be exceptionally strong, as the majority of the members are new men in this department of sport. The University of Louisville has two veterans in Wigginton, last year's Y. M. C. A. captain, and an unknown runner from Minnesota. Both the Y. M. and H. A. teams have had little experience, except for a few in minor runs.

Davidson is the only man on the Kentucky team who was a member of the winning team of last year. He is as good as he was in the meet last year, when he finished well up with the leaders. Brame, winner of the inter-class meet last Saturday, will run his first race as a member of the varsity on Turkey Day. He may be counted on to make a good showing, as he is the only man who has ever beaten Ray Hall in a cross-country race.

Three silver loving cups will be awarded at the termination of the meet tomorrow, one to the man who finishes first, one to the team which wins the meet, and one to the team which wins second place. Kentucky took two of these cups last year.

The men whom Coach Applegran will probably take to Louisville are: Davidson, Brame, Dowden, Dean, Woodard, Brown and Manager Frost.

Moloney was stepped on down in Nashville by some big bully of a Commodore, and as a result he is minus two sound ribs. But he's husky and we look for him to beat up Knoxville for what Nashville prescribed.

The passing attack of the Kittens was better than "up to the standard." It was deadly, as Vandy fans will assert—and also the Vandy frosh incidentally. We only hope that they feed Tennessee out of the same spoon tomorrow.

The Wildcats nosed out V. M. I. in first downs, 9 to 8.

WILDCATS WORK HARD FOR GAME ON TURKEY DAY

Coach Attempts to Dissipate Gloom of Defeat

VOLS' ELEVEN WEAK

Three Weeks' Preparation Should Rejuvenate 'Cats

The Wildcats, after a series of losses, will attempt a comeback against the University of Tennessee at Knoxville on Thanksgiving day. Last season the Volunteers upset the dope bucket by beating the Kentucky team but this year promises an even battle, with the victory going to the team which gets the breaks.

The game of last year was a bitter disappointment to State adherents and this season the friends of the team are looking for them to wipe out the stigma of that defeat. Tennessee has proved to be a jinx in the past to more than one southern team and delights in winning games from supposedly better teams. The Vols have had some powerful elevens in other years, but this fall finds them with one of the weakest teams which has ever represented the mountain school in a generation.

Kentucky is favored to win the game on dope, but that is no criterion of victory. We held Centre to 7 points and Centre beat Tennessee by a wide margin. But in the Alabama game which Centre won, the fact was demonstrated that dope is no good when it comes to picking the winner of a football contest. A Crimson team which had been picked by all the sport writers to march on to the southern championship was outplayed and set down by a 17-0 score.

The season as a whole has not been particularly pleasing to Kentucky fans. The game with Centre was the bright spot of the year and did much to dissipate the gloom which followed in the wake of the W. & L. game. The defeat at the hands of Alabama's "Thin Red Line" was to be expected, to some extent, but the defeat at the hands of V. M. I. was a distinct surprise and disappointment. A rousing victory over the ancient rival at Knoxville will go far toward erasing the memory of the losses of the season.

The power displayed by the freshman team this year has led friends of the Felines to believe that Kentucky is due to emerge from the obscurity that has cloaked her football fortunes so long, and that she will next year assume her rightful place among the truly great teams of the southland.

The varsity emerged from the V. M. I. game in fairly good condition and with two weeks of preparation under their belts, they will be at the top of their form when the Thanksgiving game is played. Injuries contracted in the fierce tilt with 'Bama were handicaps to the eleven in the V. M. I. game. These should all be memories by the time the Kentuckians tackle their neighbors from the hills of Tennessee.

student activities on the campus. Mr. Tinsley is a captain in the Scabbard and Blade was installed at the university in the fall of 1922 and has done much in developing military interest and in building up the R. O. T. C. organization.

"Superlatives," Title of Work of English Professor

One of the books on the spring list of Alfred A. Knopf will be the "Superlatives" of Grant C. Knight, assistant professor of English in the university. "Superlatives" gets its title from the fact that it contains ten essays on superlative characters in English and American fiction. The chapters are entitled: The Great Rogue, The Most Terrible, The Happiest, The Most Humorous, The Most Memorable Children, The Greatest Lover, The Most Unreal, The Most Pitiful, The Most Heroic.

Professor Knight, before coming to the university, wrote two works of fiction and several magazine stories and verses; publication by so important a firm as Knopf puts him in the front rank of the writers of the state.

ASPHALT for Filler because it makes the traffic-bearing surface a water-proof, flexible armor not subject to the cracks which follow rigid slab construction, and because repair costs are insignificant where each brick is an easily removable unit.

BRICK for Surface because it furnishes the best surface for traffic; hard, but not brittle—tough, but not rough—dense, and non-absorbent—smooth, but not "slick;" because its fire-hardened toughness resists wear and tear so sturdily that upkeep expense is squeezed to a minimum and because any margin of higher first-cost is speedily offset by low maintenance, long life and uninterrupted service.

WEST COMMENDS U. K. SONGSTERS

Male Quartette Spends
Summer at Crater
Lake, Ore.

According to a letter received by President McVey from C. G. Thomson, superintendent of Crater National Park, Melford, Oregon, the University of Kentucky Quartet was exceedingly "good" out there this summer. The 1923-24 quartet, composed of Earl M. Heavrin, Robert Clem, Elbert DeCoursey and Earl Baughman, sang and assisted with community work at Crater National Park and were a great help in drawing the crowds to the park. Besides helping with their songs, they were worthy representatives of Kentucky and her university.

Mr. Thomson writes of the fine impression these young Kentuckians made with the park visitors:

"I have bided my time in writing you concerning the fine work done here last summer by the four Kentucky alumni, Earl M. Heavrin, Robert Clem, Elbert DeCoursey and Earl Baughman, as I wished to have a perfect perspective. Two whole months have elapsed since their departure, so I feel safe in telling you of the splendid impression they made, the fine work they did for this service and the way in which they carried on the banner of their alma mater.

"Entirely aside from their value as singers, they are very fine material. I never knew a group of four men possessed of such exemplary habits, such fine traditions. History, song and story lead us all to expect much from Kentucky's young manhood. These four hold to the faith.

"The work as rangers was hard for them at the outset, but their sane viewpoint made jokes of blisters. Baughman was especially useful because of his electrical engineering; he was our mainstay all summer in matters electrical and in telephone work. DeCoursey specialized on trail making and mending. Heavrin and Clem were the two best entrance men I have ever known; their characters and manner were just aligned with the handling of incoming and outgoing visitors.

"They worked all day, and that meant seven days a week; then, after supper, they went into the camp grounds and organized campfire singing stunts. It was a huge success, as testified to by numerous newspaper articles and by the boundless enthusiasm of folks. After our little community house was finished, that became the center of their evening activities. Their splendidly harmonized voices are still talked of locally, and will be recalled around many an American fireplace this winter when folks become reminiscent of the summer's vacation."

came out of the Vandy game in good shape.

The freshmen have an excellent opportunity to annex the Southern title if they win the remaining games on their schedule. The team has been liable to criticism only once this year when they put up such a poor fight against Centre. But they will attempt to make up for this on Thanksgiving day, when they engage the Loceys in a battle royal in Danville.

Coach Eklund will start practically the same lineup, with the exception of Moloney, with which he started the Vanderbilt game.

Illustrated Lecture Feature at Patterson Hall

The meeting of the Woman's Club of the university was held at Patterson Hall Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the president, Mrs. C. J. Norwood, in the chair.

The feature of the meeting was an illustrated lecture on "Occupational Therapist of the Eastern Kentucky Hospital," by Mrs. Cecilia Hazel.

She told of the work among the patients, 800 of whom are taught to make wooden and tin toys, laces and baskets. Mrs. Hazel had on exhibition a supply of rugs, scarfs, baskets and toys. A very interesting part of the program was the showing of slides of the patients at work, at play, and at rest.

Mrs. Howard announced the appointment of a committee composed of Mrs. W. H. Lafferty, Mrs. Frank L. McVey, and Mrs. J. B. Miner to procure a marker for old Maxwell Spring.

The regular meeting was followed by a social hour.

become a star, while Madame Braziloff elopes with the discomfited Detais, who cheers up at the thought of the luxuries which her money will buy for him. And so ends this comedy farce.

From the first note of the chimes which introduce each act at the Roman, to the last curtain call, the play is alive with spontaneous humor. The script is tinged faintly with the irony of Oscar Wilde, but it is distinctly Perkinsque in flavor. The author has chosen an excellent medium of presentation in his epigrammatic repartee. Many well known critics say that he has travelled far along the path to Broadway, and they are doubtless right, if his work in the future equals the present production.

Marjorie Warden, as Betsy Rye, is pleasing to say the least. Her appearance in the doorway at the end of the first act causes every man past thirty to smile to himself and to remember a few lines of "That Old Sweetheart of Mine." Her charm is even more unconscious and appealing than in former productions in which she has been cast. It is a unique touch to cast Miss Warden in the role of a girl who cannot act, but she plays it perfectly, thereby showing her histrionic excellence.

Those who have not seen Eleanor Morse behind the footlights since her wonderful portrayal of Mrs. Erylinne in "Lady Windermere's Fan," were delighted to welcome her return as Madame Braziloff. Her patrician air and finished acting always secure for her a place in the front ranks of any players. But Miss Morse is versatile; she can portray comedy as well as tragedy, as she demonstrated in Madame Braziloff's ready made match for herself.

Mimi, the maid, is delineated by Miss Jeanette Lampert with superior feeling and grace. She was by turns wistful and joyous, and her audience would have liked to see more of her acting.

Oskar Hambleton furnished the principal comedy role as Rollo Detais. He entered fully into the spirit of his part and held the interest of the audience throughout the play. Especially will he be remembered in the smoking of his first cigar, although he was delightful in every second of his appearance.

As Malcolm Rye, W. H. Sutherland leaves nothing to be desired. The stern, sensible, "bread-and-butter" business man is played by a finished actor.

Eric Longbeak is ably portrayed by Rodes K. Myers. Mr. Myers deserves special credit, as he entered the cast only a week ago, thus working under difficulties.

Minor comedy parts were furnished by Wallace Sanders and Clifton Coons in particularly mirth-provoking situations.

The bizarre setting of green orange and chinese blue in the first act was designed by Oskar Hambleton, and the futuristic representations of movie stars in the setting of the last two acts were done by Tom Young, formerly of the university.
